DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 4, 6, 7 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 4, lines 3-4, the limitation “frame being smaller than the cross-section of the cut trench” renders the claim indefinite since applicant improperly seeks to link a positively claimed element, i.e., the frame, to an unclaimed element, i.e., the cut trench. In particular, since the “cut trench” is not being claimed, the metes and the bounds of the claim cannot be properly ascertained.

In claim 4, line 5, the recitation “the soil material” lacks proper antecedent basis.

In claim 6, line 7, the recitation “the carrier implement” lacks proper antecedent basis.

Regarding claim 6, the word "means" is preceded by no words in an attempt to use a "means" clause to recite a claim element as a means for performing a specified function. However, since no function is specified by the word(s) preceding "means," it is impossible to determine the equivalents of the element, as required by 35 U.S.C. 112, sixth paragraph. See Ex parte Klumb, 159 USPQ 694 (Bd. App. 1967).

A broad range or limitation together with a narrow range or limitation that falls within the broad range or limitation (in the same claim) is considered indefinite, since the resulting claim does not clearly set forth the metes and bounds of the patent protection desired. Note the explanation given by the Board of Patent Appeals and Interferences in Ex parte Wu, 10 USPQ2d 2031, 2033 (Bd. Pat. App. & Inter. 1989), as to where broad language is followed by "such as" and then narrow language. The Board stated that this can render a claim indefinite by raising a question or doubt as to whether the feature introduced by such language is (a) merely exemplary of the remainder of the claim, and therefore not required, or (b) a required feature of the claims. Note also, for example, the decisions of Ex parte Steigewald, 131 USPQ 74 (Bd. App. 1961); Ex parte Hall, 83 USPQ 38 (Bd. App. 1948); and Ex parte Hasche, 86 USPQ 481 (Bd. App. 1949). In the present instance, claims 7 and 9 recite the broad recitations "guide rod" and "servomechanism", respectively, and the claim also recites "telescopic rod" and "a cable-hauled mechanism" which is the narrower statement of the range/limitation.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by German reference '262.

In so far as the claims can be understood due to the indefiniteness noted above, the Figure of the German '262 reference is considered to show the structure of the cutting device. Specifically, the German '262 reference relates to a trench wall cutter suspended on cables. The cutting wheels 6, 7 are rotated by hydraulic drives in opposite directions. A sucking tube 1 is provided for sucking off fluid and stripped soil material directly at the cutting wheels. Within the sucking tube 1 there are provided two hydraulic lines 2 for supplying hydraulic fluid to the hydraulic drives of the cutting wheels 6, 7 and one hydraulic line 3 for the back-flow of the hydraulic fluid.

The other references cited on the PTO-1449 could have been applied to the claims but have not been to avoid undue multiplicity.
